

Cooking Cultures

Convergent Histories of Food and Feeling

Sondersammelgebiet
Volks- & Völkerkunde
In Zusammenarbeit mit der DFG

Edited by
Ishita Banerjee-Dube

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction: Culinary Cultures and Convergent Histories Ishita Banerjee-Dube	1
Part I: Food, Pride, Power
1. Indigeneity, Alienness and Cuisine: Are Trout South African Duncan Brown	21
2. The Hummus Wars: Local Food, Guinness Records and Palestinian-Israeli Gastropolitics Nir Avieli	39
3. Rice, Pork and Power in the Vietnamese Village, 1774–1883 Erica J. Peters	58
Part II: Cooking, Cuisine, Gender
4. ‘Mem’ and ‘Cookie’: The Colonial Kitchen in Malaysia and Singapore Cecilia Leong-Salobir	79
5. Modern Menus: Food, Family, Health and Gender in Colonial Bengal Ishita Banerjee-Dube	100
6. Sweetness, Gender, and Identity in Japanese Culinary Culture Jon D. Holtzman	122

Part III: Food, Identity, Personhood

7. Local Foods and Meanings in Contemporary China: The Case of Southwest Hubei
Xu Wu 139
8. From the Market to the Kitchen and Table: Food and its Many Meanings in Dakar
María Guadalupe Aguilar Escobedo 158
9. What is Human?: Anthropomorphic Anthropophagy in Northwest Mozambique
Arianna Huhn 177

Part IV: Food, Myth, Nostalgia

10. Ras el Hanout and Preserved Lemons: Memories, Markets and the Scent of Borrowed Traditions
Jean Duruz 201
11. Culinary Myths of the Mexican Nation
Sarah Bak-Geller Corona 224
- Contributors* 247
- Index* 251