

ANNALS OF THE NEW YORK ACADEMY OF SCIENCES

Volume 749

THE ANTHROPOLOGY OF LOWER
INCOME URBAN ENCLAVES
THE CASE OF EAST HARLEM

Edited by Judith Freidenberg

Sondersammelgebiet
Volks- & Völkerkunde

in Zusammenarbeit mit der DFG

*The New York Academy of Sciences
New York, New York
1995*

Volume 749
June 26, 1995

THE ANTHROPOLOGY OF LOWER
INCOME URBAN ENCLAVES
THE CASE OF EAST HARLEM<sup>a</sup>

Editor
JUDITH FREIDENBERG

---

CONTENTS

---

|                                                                     |     |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Preface. By JUDITH FREIDENBERG . . . . .                     | vii |
| Acknowledgments . . . . .                                           | ix  |
| Dedication to Rosa M. Torruellas. By RINA BENMAYOR . . . . . | xi  |

|                                                                                      |   |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---|
| Lower Income Urban Enclaves: Introduction.By JUDITH FREIDENBERG . . . . . | 1 |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---|

Part I. Ethnographic History of East Harlem: 1950–1992

|                                                                                                                                                         |     |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Retrospect of Ethnomedical Research among Puerto Ricans:Living at the Margin of East Harlem. By ELENA PADILLA . . . . .                      | 41  |
| Growing Up in Eastville, a Barrio of New York: A Retrospective View.By JOAN MENCHER . . . . .                                                | 51  |
| The Social Cost of Dependency: The Transformation of thePuerto Rican Working Class from 1960 to 1990.By HELEN I. SAFA . . . . .          | 75  |
| The Political Economy of Resistance and Self-Destruction inthe Crack Economy: An Ethnographic Perspective.By PHILIPPE BOURGOIS . . . . . | 97  |
| Policy Ethnography in East Harlem: Methodological Issues.By JUDITH FREIDENBERG . . . . .                                                     | 119 |

<sup>a</sup>This volume is the result of a workshop held at the Museum of The City of New York in November of 1992.

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |     |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| A Retrospective of Two and One Half Decades of East HarlemResearch. By ANNA LOU DEHAVENON . . . . .                                                                                                                                                  | 137 |
| Public Housing Projects as Successful Environments forAdolescent Development. By TERRY WILLIAMS andWILLIAM KORNBUM . . . . .                                                                                                                     | 153 |
| " Mi Sacrificio Bien Pago ": Puerto Rican Women on Welfareand Family Values. By ROSA M. TORRUELLAS . . . . .                                                                                                                                  | 177 |
| Part II. Ethnography and National Culture:A Comparative Perspective                                                                                                                                                                      |     |
| The Anthropology of Lower Income Urban Enclaves.By DELMOS J. JONES . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                         | 189 |
| The Anthropology of Stranger and Native. By JUNE NASH . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                          | 205 |
| Some Comments on the Anthropology of Lower IncomeUrban Enclaves: Dominican Newcomers in the City.By NINNA NYBERG SØRENSEN . . . . .                                                                                                              | 211 |
| Slums, Ghettos, and Other Conundrums in the Anthropologyof Lower Income Urban Enclaves.By M. PATRICIA FERNÁNDEZ KELLY . . . . .                                                                                                                  | 219 |
| The Urban Enclave and Related Policy Issues.By JOAN F. MONTBACH . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                            | 235 |
| Contemporary Immigration: Issues and Perspectives.By NANCY FONER . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                           | 245 |
| The Challenge of Funds of Knowledge in Urban Arenas:Another Way of Understanding the Learning Resourcesof Poor Mexicano Households in the U.S. Southwestand Their Implications for National Contexts.By CARLOS G. VÉLEZ-IBÁÑEZ . . . . . | 253 |
| Subject Index . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | 281 |
| Index of Contributors . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 287 |

The New York Academy of Sciences believes it has a responsibility to provide an open forum for discussion of scientific questions. The positions taken by the participants in the reported conferences are their own and not necessarily those of the Academy. The Academy has no intent to influence legislation by providing such forums.