Material cultures
Why some things matter

Edited by

Daniel Miller

The University of Chicago Press

Contents

Acknowledgements ix

Notes on contributors xi

Part I
Introduction

1 Why some things matter 3
Daniel Miller

Part II
The domestic sphere

2 Radio texture: between self and others 25
Jo Tacchi

3 From woollen carpet to grass carpet: bridging house and garden in an English suburb 47
Sophie Chevalier

4 Window shopping at home: classifieds, catalogues and new consumer skills 73
Alison J. Clarke

Part III
The public sphere

5 The message in paper 103
Andrea Pellegram

6 Material of culture, fabric of identity 121
Neil Jarman

7 Calypso's consequences 147
Justin Finden-Crofts

Part IV
The global sphere (or the World Wide West)

8 Coca-Cola: a black sweet drink from Trinidad 169
Daniel Miller

9 Signs of the new nation: gift exchange, consumption and aid on a former collective farm in north-west Estonia 189
Sigrid Rausing

10 At home and abroad: inalienable wealth, personal consumption and the formulations of femininity in the southern Philippines 215
Mark Johnson

Index 241