

Children and Anthropology

Perspectives for the 21st Century

EDITED BY

Helen B. Schwartzman

BERGIN & GARVEY
Westport, Connecticut • London

Contents

Figures	ix
Preface and Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction: Questions and Challenges for a 21st-Century Anthropology of Children Helen B. Schwartzman	1
1. Children and Anthropology: A Century of Studies Helen B. Schwartzman	15
2. Archaeological Approaches to the Study of Prehistoric Children: Past Trends and Future Directions Blythe E. Roveland	39
3. The Bodily Costs of Childbearing: Western Science Through a West African Lens Caroline H. Bledsoe	57
4. Street Children and Their Peers: Perspectives on Homelessness, Poverty, and Health Catherine Panter-Brick	83

5. Participatory Research with Children in Vietnam Joachim Theis	99
6. The Bear (Ir)Realities: Media Technology and the Pretend–Real Distinction on a Televised Puppet Show Calvin Smith, Candi Forrest, Laurence Goldman, and Michael Emmison	111
7. Feminist Theory and the Ethnography of Children’s Worlds: Barbie in New Haven, Connecticut Elizabeth Chin	129
8. Young People and the Creation of Cultural Meaning: Three Examples from the Realm of Computing in Brazil Gerald Lombardi	149
9. Those on the Other Side: Ethnic Identity and Imagination in Greek-Cypriot Children’s Lives Spyros Spyrou	167
10. Constructing Racialized Childhoods in Canadian Political Discourse Jane Helleiner	187
Index	205
About the Contributors	209