

The Wesleyan
Foundation
For Anthropological Research, Inc.

Anthropology Put to Work

Edited by

LES W. FIELD AND RICHARD G. FOX

Sondersammlungsgebiet
Volks- & Völkereunde
in Zusammenarbeit mit der DFG

 BERG

Oxford • New York

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Participants in the Wenner-Gren Symposium	xi
Introduction: How Does Anthropology Work Today? Les W. Field and Richard G. Fox	1
1 Anthropological Collaborations in Colombia Joanne Rappaport	21
2 Gray Spaces and Endless Negotiations: Forensic Anthropology and Human Rights Mercedes Doretti and Jennifer Burrell	45
3 Collaborating to Meet the Goals of a Native Sovereign Nation: The Tule River Tribal History Project Gelya Frank	65
4 Doing Cultural Anthropology and Disability Studies in Rehabilitation Training and Research Contexts Pamela Block	85
5 In Praise of “Reckless Minds”: Making a Case for Activist Anthropology Charles R. Hale	103
6 What Do Indicators Indicate? Reflections on the Trials and Tribulations of Using Food Aid to Promote Development in Haiti Drexel G. Woodson	129

7	Working Anthropology: A View from the Women's Research Arena Linda Basch	149
8	Potential Collaborations and Disjunctures in Australian Work Sites: An Experiential Rendering Sandy Toussaint	161
9	The Dilemmas of "Working" Anthropology in Twenty-first-Century India Nandini Sundar	181
10	Ethnographic Alchemy: Perspectives on Anthropological Work from Northern Madagascar Andrew Walsh	201
11	Reflections on the Symposium Douglas E. Foley	217
	References	225
	Index	253