

Off-Centre

Feminism and cultural studies

Edited by

Sarah Franklin, Celia Lury & Jackie Stacey

Lancaster University

HarperCollins Academic

An imprint of HarperCollins Publishers

Contents

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| List of Plates  | vii |
| Preface   | ix  |
| Part One: Introduction   |     |
| 1 Feminism and cultural studies: pasts, presents, futures   | 1   |
| 2 Feminism, Marxism and Thatcherism   | 21  |
| Part Two: Representation and identity  |     |
| 1 Melodrama's gendered audience Angela Partington  | 49  |
| 2 Open or closed: popular magazines and dominant culture Helen Pleasance   | 69  |
| 3 Having it all: feminism and the pleasures of the popular Yvonne Tasker   | 85  |
| 4 Reading the self: autobiography, gender and the institution of the literary Celia Lury   | 97  |
| 5 Is 'Doing Nothing' just boys' play?: Integrating feminist and cultural studies perspectives on working-class young men's masculinity Joyce E. Canaan | 109 |
| Part Three: Science and technology   |     |
| 6 Science and technology: questions for cultural studies and feminism Maureen McNeil and Sarah Franklin  | 129 |
| 7 In the wake of the Alton Bill: science, technology and reproductive politics The Science and Technology Subgroup                                     | 147 |
| Section 1 Putting the Alton Bill in context Maureen McNeil   | 149 |
| Section 2 Abortion Acts: 1803 to 1967 Wendy Fyfe   | 160 |

|  |   |  |     |
|--|---|--|-----|
| Section 3  | Adversarial politics: the legal construction of abortion                                      | Deborah Lynn Steinberg              | 175 |
| Section 4  | Fetal fascinations: new dimensions to the medical-scientific construction of fetal personhood | Sarah Franklin                      | 190 |
| Section 5  | The Alton Bill and the media's 'consensual' position  | Tessa Randles                       | 206 |
| Conclusion   | Feminism and abortion: pasts, presents and futures  | The Science and Technology Subgroup | 214 |
| Part Four: Thatcherism and the enterprise culture |   |  |     |
| 8  | Making and not making the difference: the gender politics of Thatcherism                      | Maureen McNeil                      | 221 |
| 9  | Enterprising women: images of success   | Janet Newman                        | 241 |
| 10   | Enterprise fictions: women of substance   | Estella Tincknell                   | 260 |
| 11   | Redefining cultural identities  | Evelyn Reid                         | 274 |
| 12   | Promoting normality: Section 28 and the regulation of sexuality                               | Jackie Stacey                       | 284 |
|  | Bibliography  |  | 305 |
|  | Notes on contributors   |  | 321 |
|  | Publications from the Department of Cultural Studies at Birmingham                            |  | 324 |
|  | Index   |  | 325 |