
Conceptualizing society

Edited by
Adam Kuper

London and New York

Contents

List of contributors	vii
Preface	ix
Introduction	1
Adam Kuper

Part I Individuals and networks

1 Towards greater naturalism in conceptualizing societies	17
Fredrik Barth
2 The global ecumene as a network of networks	34
Ulf Hannerz

Part II Parts and wholes: the individual and society

3 Comparison, a universal for anthropology: from 're-presentation' to the comparison of hierarchies of values	59
Daniel de Coppet
4 Parts and wholes: refiguring relationships in a post-plural world	75
Marilyn Strathern

Part III Models of society, the individual, and nature

5 Societies of nature and the nature of society Philippe Descola	107
6 What goes without saying: the conceptualization of Zafimaniry society Maurice Bloch	127
Name index	147
Subject index	150