

American Multiculturalism after 9/11

Transatlantic Perspectives

Derek Rubin and Jaap Verheul

Sondersammelgebiet
Volks- & Völkerkunde
Zusammenarbeit mit der DFG

Table of contents

Derek Rubin and Jaap Verheul Introduction	7
Multicultural Boundary Crossings
Paul Lauter Multiculturalism and Immigration	23
Richard Alba Native-Immigrant Boundaries and Ethnic and Racial Inequalities	35
Ed Jonker Coherence, Difference, and Citizenship: A Genealogy of Multiculturalism	51
Cultural Reflections of the Unthinkable
Rob Kroes Indecent Exposure: Picturing the Horror of 9/11	67
Phillip E. Wegner “The Dead Are Our Redeemers”: Culture, Belief, and United 93	81
Michan Andrew Connor Real American Heroes: Attacking Multiculturalism through the Discourse of Heroic Sacrifice	93
Mathilde Roza “America under Attack”: Unity and Division after 9/11	105
John-Paul Colgan “This Godless Democracy”: Terrorism, Multiculturalism, and American Self-Criticism in John Updike	119
Rachel Hutchins-Viroux Multiculturalism in American History Textbooks before and after 9/11	133

Transatlantic Dialogues

Patrick Hyder Patterson A Kinder, Gentler Europe? Islam, Christianity, and the Divergent Multiculturalisms of the New West	147
Johanna C. Kardux Slavery, Memory, and Citizenship in Transatlantic Perspective	165
Jaap Kooijman Are We All Americans? 9/11 and Discourses of Multiculturalism in the Netherlands	181
Jaap Verheul “How could this have happened in Holland?” American Perceptions of Dutch Multiculturalism after 9/11	191
About the Contributors	207
Index	213