

Thinking Through Tourism

Edited by
Julie Scott and Tom Selwyn

Sondersammelgebiet
Volks- & Völkerkunde

In Zusammenarbeit mit der DFG

 BERG

Oxford • New York

Contents

List of Figures	vii
Acknowledgements	viii
Notes on Contributors	ix
Foreword Margaret E. Kenna	xiii
1 Introduction: Thinking Through Tourism – Framing the Volume Julie Scott and Tom Selwyn	1
2 Contours of a Nation: Being British in Mallorca Hazel Andrews	27
3 The Sex of Tourism? Bodies under Suspicion in Paradise Susan Frohlick	51
4 Belonging at the Cottage Julia Harrison	71
5 Tourists, Developers and Civil Society: On the Commodification of Malta’s Landscapes Jeremy Boissevain	93
6 Enchanted Sites, Prosaic Interests: Traders of the Bazaar in Aleppo Annika Rabo	117
7 Tropical Island Gardens and Formations of Modernity David Picard	139
8 Of Jews, Christians and Travellers in Crete: Recovered ‘Roots’, Unwanted ‘Heritage’ Vassiliki Yiakoumaki	161

Contents

9	Tourist Attractions, Cultural Icons, Sites of Sacred Encounter: Engagements with Malta's Neolithic Temples Kathryn Rountree	183
10	'Hotel Royal' and other Spaces of Hospitality: Tourists and Migrants in the Mediterranean Ramona Lenz	209
11	Anthropology, Tourism and Intervention? Simone Abram	231
	Postlude Nelson Graburn	255
	Index	259