

SLAVERY, MEMORY AND IDENTITY:
NATIONAL REPRESENTATIONS AND
GLOBAL LEGACIES

EDITED BY

Douglas Hamilton, Kate Hodgson and Joel Quirk

PICKERING & CHATTO
2012

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	vii
List of Contributors	ix
Introduction: Slavery, Memory and Identity: National Representations and Global Legacies – Douglas Hamilton, Kate Hodgson and Joel Quirk	1
1 'A Thoroughly National Work': The Politics of Blame and European Abolitionist Identities – Kate Hodgson	15
2 From Slave Quarters to Wigwams: Native American Slaveholding and the Debate over Civilization – Natalie Joy	29
3 For Civilization's Sake: Legal Abolition of Slavery in Nepal and Sierra Leone in a Global Perspective, 1920–30 – Sara Elmer and Christine Whyte	45
4 The Heritage of Slavery and Nation Building: A Comparison of South Africa and Mauritius – Anne Eichmann	63
5 Picturing Slavery: The Perils and Promise of Representations of Slavery in the United States, the Bahamas and England – Jim Downs	77
6 'History Must be Re-Written!': Revisionist Ambitions among West African Slave Descendants – Eric Hahonou and Lotte Pelckmans	91
7 Contrapuntal Memories of Slavery and Abolition in the French-Speaking World – Charles Forsdick	105
8 Public Memory of Slavery in Brazil – Ana Lucia Araújo	115
9 Learning to Remember and Imagine Slavery: The Pedagogies of Museum Field Trips in the Representation of 'Difficult' Histories – Nikki Spalding	131
10 Slavery and Racism as the 'Wrongs' of (European) History: Reflections from a Study on Portuguese Textbooks – Marta Araújo and Silvia Rodríguez Maeso	151
Notes	167
Index	209