

Friendship, Descent and Alliance in Africa

Anthropological Perspectives

Edited by

Martine Guichard, Tilo Grätz and Youssef Diallo

berghahn
NEW YORK • OXFORD
www.berghahnbooks.com

Contents

Foreword Günther Schlee	vii
Acknowledgements	viii
Introduction Martine Guichard	1
Part I. Friendship, Kinship and Age
Chapter 1. Where Are Other People's Friends Hiding? Reflections on Anthropological Studies of Friendship Martine Guichard	19
Chapter 2. Comradeship and the Transformation of Alliance Theory among the Maasai: Shifting the Focus from Descent to Peer-Group Loyalty Paul Spencer	42
Part II. Friendship and Ethnicity
Chapter 3. Friendship Networks in Southwestern Ethiopia Wolde Gossa Tadesse and Martine Guichard	57
Chapter 4. Friendship and Spiritual Parenthood among the Moose and the Fulbe in Burkina Faso Mark Breusers	74
Chapter 5. Labour Migration and Moral Dimensions of Interethnic Friendships: The Case of Young Gold Miners in Benin (West Africa) Tilo Grätz	97
Part III. Friendship, Politics and Urbanity
Chapter 6. Friendship and Kinship among Merchants and Veterans in Mali Richard L. Warms	119
Chapter 7. 'Down-to-Earth': Friendship and a National Elite Circle in Botswana Richard Werbner	133

Chapter 8. Negotiating Friendship and Kinship in a Context of Violence: The Case of the Tuareg during the Upheaval in Mali from 1990 to 1996	145
Georg Klute
Afterword. Friendship in a World of Force and Power	161
Stephen P. Reyna
Bibliography	180
Notes on Contributors	200
Index	202