

NARRATING THE CITY

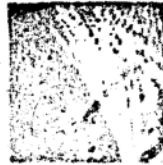

Histories, Space, and the Everyday

Edited by
Wladimir Fischer-Nebmaier,
Matthew P. Berg,
and Anastasia Christou

Sondersammelgebiet
Volks- & Völkerkunde

in Zusammenarbeit mit der DFG

berghahn

NEW YORK • OXFORD
www.berghahnbooks.com

Contents

List of Figures	vii
Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction. Space, Narration, and the Everyday Wladimir Fischer-Nebmaier	1

Part I. Narratives and Images of the City

Chapter 1. The Case of Ossification: Contemporary Narratives about Everyday Life in Nineteenth- and Twentieth-Century L'viv Andriy Zayarnyuk	59
Chapter 2. The Masa's Odysseys through Bourgeois Caracas: The Testimony of Novels, 1920s–1970s Arturo Almandoz	75
Chapter 3. Reimagining Nieuwland: Narrative Mapping and the Mental Geography of Urban Space in a Dutch Multiethnic Neighborhood Leeke Reinders	97

Part II. Claiming Urban Space

Chapter 4. City and Cinema as Spaces for (Transnational) Grassroots Mobilization: Perspectives from Southeastern and Central Europe Anna Schober	139
Chapter 5. Adjudicating Lodging: Denazification, Housing Requisition, and Identity in “Red Vienna,” 1945–1948 Matthew P. Berg	175

Part III. Living and Working in the City

Chapter 6. Urban Information Flows: Workers' and Employers' Knowledge of the Asbestos Hazard in Clydeside, ca. 1950s–1970s Ronald Johnston and Arthur McIvor	199
--	-----

Chapter 7. Creating a Familiar Space: Child Care, Kinship, and Community in Postsocialist New Zagreb	219
Tihana Rubić and Carolin Leutloff-Grandits
Index	243