

Cosmos, Gods and Madmen

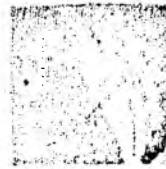

Frameworks in the Anthropologies of Medicine

Edited by

Roland Littlewood and Rebecca Lynch

Sondersammelgebiet
Volks- & Völkerkunde

in Zusammenarbeit mit der DFG

berghahn

NEW YORK • OXFORD

www.berghahnbooks.com

Contents

Acknowledgements	vi
Introduction: Divinity, Disease, Distress Roland Littlewood and Rebecca Lynch	1
1. Why Animism Matters A. David Napier	9
2. Spreading the Gospel of the Miracle Cure: Panama's Black Christ Rodney J. Reynolds	25
3. Madness and Miracles: Hoping for Healing in Rural Ghana Ursula M. Read	45
4. 'Sakawa' Rumours: Occult Internet Fraud and Ghanaian Identity Alice Armstrong	67
5. To Heal the Body: The Body as Congregation among Post-Surgical Patients in Benin Isabelle L. Lange	93
6. Addiction and the Duality of the Self in a North American Religio-Therapeutic Community Ellie Reynolds	116
7. Religious Conversion and Madness: Contested Territory in the Peruvian Andes David M. R. Orr	133
8. Cosmologies of Fear: The Medicalization of Anxiety in Contemporary Britain Rebecca Lynch	154
9. Functionalists and Zombis: Sorcery as Spandrel and Social Rescue Roland Littlewood	176
10. Religion and Psychosis: A Common Evolutionary Trajectory? Simon Dein	191
Index	211