

Cosmopolitanism and Tourism

Rethinking Theory and Practice

Edited by Robert Shepherd

FID SOZIAL- UND
KULTURANTHROPOLOGIE
in Zusammenarbeit mit der DFG

LEXINGTON BOOKS
Lanham • Boulder • New York • London

Contents

Introduction: Cosmopolitanism and Tourism in a Post-Hegelian Age Robert Shepherd	vii
PART I: COSMOPOLITANS ON TOUR	1
1 A Cosmopolitan Sense of Place: Busking, Tourism, and Performance in “The City of Strangers” Adam Kaul	3
2 Are We (Still) the World? Service Learning and the Weird Slot in Student Narratives of Study Abroad Ben Feinberg and Sarah E. Edwards	25
3 Striving for Cosmopolitanism: Voluntouristic Encounters in Guatemala Rebecca L. Nelson	51
4 Making the Strange Familiar, but not Necessarily the Familiar Strange: On Tour in China Robert Shepherd	75
PART II: ENCOUNTERING COSMOPOLITANISM	95
5 From Bieber to the Buddha: “Friendly Guides” and Cosmopolitanism from Below in Bodh Gaya, India David Geary	97
6 Dirty Work, Glamorous Migrant: Korean Emirates Airlines Female Flight Attendants and Cosmopolitan Racial and National Hierarchies Alex Jong-Seok Lee	115

7	The Color Purple: Indigenous Weavers, Heritage Cloth and Interpretations of Cosmopolitanism in Practice	139
	Cherubim Quizon
8	“Local-politan” Gastronomy and Bolivian Cuisine: How the Cosmopolitan is Forged from the Local	163
	Clare A. Sammells
	Conclusion: Do Tourists Just Want to Have Fun?	179
	Robert Shepherd
	Afterword: The Cosmopolitanization of Tourism: An Afterthought	187
	Noel B. Salazar
	Index	195
	About the Contributors	203