

WHEN "HOME" MEANS MORE THAN ONE COUNTRY

The Discursive (Re)Construction of Identities
In Trans-National Migrant Communities

Daniel Ochieng Orwenjo
& Hameed Tunde Asiru (eds.)

TABLE OF CONTENTS

CHAPTER ONE

Living on the Edge of African Dreams: New Identities for African and African Diaspora Caribbean Students in Brazil

Ricardo Gualda, Universidade Federal da Bahia, Brazil (10-28)

CHAPTER TWO

Reframing Kenya from Majuu: Language use among Kenyans in the Diaspora

Mungai Mutonya, Washington University in St. Louis, African and African American Studies Program, USA (29-58)

CHAPTER THREE

Change or Continuity? Sociolinguistic Trends in Nubi Ethnolinguistic Identity in Kenya and Uganda

Benson Ojwang, Department of Linguistics, Maseno University, Kenya (59-84)

CHAPTER FOUR

“Whose Interests Do We Represent?” The Nexus of Ugandan Diasporas, Social Media and the 2016 Elections

David Mugambe, Mpiima, Makerere University, Uganda (85-106)

CHAPTER FIVE

“Where is Home?” or Building an Identity: The Case of Transnational Families Iulia-Elena Hossu, Researcher, Romania (107-121)

CHAPTER SIX

Feminism and Migration – the Romanian Approach of the Situation

Anca Raluca Aştilean, Romania (122-131)

CHAPTER SEVEN

‘Ni Noir ni Blanc’ as the paradox of an illusory double identity

Joseph Mbongue, University of Yaoundé I – Cameroon (132-149)

CHAPTER EIGHT

The English Language and the Refugee Identity: Insights from Dadaab Refugee Camps

Phyllis W. Mwangi, (Ph.D), Kiguru Gatitu, (Ph.D) and Purity M. Nthiga, (Ph.D) English and Linguistics Department, Kenyatta University, Nairobi. (150-166)

CHAPTER NINE

The Indian in Luganda Literature

Isaac Ssettuba, Researcher, Interpreter, Translator, Kampala, Uganda (168-191)

CHAPTER TEN

Seeking Liberation in the Unknown: An Analysis of the Flight Motif and the Child Character in Nuruddin Farah's Third Trilogy

Obala Musumba, Institute of Asian and African Studies, Humboldt University of Berlin (192-204)

CHAPTER ELEVEN

Narratives of Identity in Migrant Women's Autobiography

Esther G. Wanjau, Karatina University, Kenya (205-211)

INDEX (212-214)

BIOGRAPHY (215-217)