

Across Theory
and Practice

Thinking Through Urban Research

Monika Grubbauer | Kate Shaw

[eds.]

EUROPEAN UNION
MULTIDISCIPLINARY SCIENCE
in Zusammenarbeit mit der DFG

jovis

Contents

7

Talking through urban research across theory and practice

Monika Grubbauer and
Kate Shaw

I Learning from experiences elsewhere

Learning through practice

22

Urban encounters: Practical experiences of the metroZones-school for urban action

Kathrin Wildner

32

Ambivalent divisions and linkages between theory and practice in architecture faculties

Nina Gribat

43

Theory versus practice in learning from elsewhere: Unsettling academic hierarchies of value

Tim Bunnell

51

Commentary

Kathrin Wildner, Tim Bunnell, Nina Gribat, Kate Shaw

58

II Learning from experiences elsewhere

Policy learnings

60

Mobilising knowledge at the science-policy interface: 'Humanity on the move'

Markus Hesse

68

Personal reflections on research, theory, and policymaking

Alan Gilbert

78

Connecting research and policy: Individual and institutional triumphs and trials

Charlotte Lemanski

87

Commentary

Charlotte Lemanski, Alan Gilbert, Eva Kuschinski

90

III Responding to problems on the ground

Establishing grounds

92

Out of the dark—the city

Christine Hentschel

101

Ways of understanding, expressing, and practising looking at the city

Christopher Dell

111

Tales of cities as (resistant) practices

Isabelle Doucet

120

A panel discussion: Learning in and from Hamburg

Marcus Menzl, Joachim Thiel, Renée Tribble and Kate Shaw

138

IV Responding to problems on the ground

Enabling institutions

140

Getting unstuck: Planning education legacies and urban challenges in the global south

Daniel K.B. Inkoom

149

The practice of urban theory in Latin America

Priscilla Connolly

160

Field space as theory and practice

Solomon Benjamin

173

Commentary

Hanna Hilbrandt, Priscilla Connolly, Solomon Benjamin, Daniel K.B. Inkoom

176

V Enacting social change

Responses in empirical research

178

Corruption in theory and practice: Insights from ethnographic encounters in Nepal

Katharine N. Rankin and Elsie Lewison

188

Learning from neoliberalism: A Machiavellian plea for reverse engineering

Joanna Kusiak

197

Between the archive and the concept: Urban squatting and the 'pulse of the archive'

Alex Vasudevan

204

VI Enacting social change

Responses in academic practice

206

Working as an urban scholar today: For a critical urban practice within and beyond the neoliberal university

Eva Kuschinski, Hanna Hilbrandt, Nina Fraeser

216

Confessions of an unlikely theorist

Alex Schafran

223

In everyday city struggles: Collaborative research and its inspirations

Sophie Oldfield

231

Commentary

Nina Fraeser, Hanna Hilbrandt, Eva Kuschinski, Alex Schafran, Monika Grubbauer

238

VII Final reflections

240

A student perspective on theory and practice in interdisciplinary urban research

Leonie Hinzen and Thorsten Werbeck

248

Some concluding thoughts...

Kate Shaw and Monika Grubbauer

255

Imprint