

Foucault, Neoliberalism, and Beyond

Edited by Stephen W. Sawyer and
Daniel Steinmetz-Jenkins

ROWMAN &
LITTLEFIELD
INTERNATIONAL

London • New York

Contents

Introduction	vii
Stephen W. Sawyer and Daniel Steinmetz-Jenkins
1 A Liberal Despite Himself: Reflections on a Debate, Reappraisals of a Question Michael Behrent	1
2 A Grand Misunderstanding: Foucault and German Neoliberalism, Then and Now Serge Audier	33
3 Finding a “Left Governmentality”: Foucault’s Last Decade Daniel Zamora	53
4 Foucault’s Early Reading of Marx and the Two Meanings of Humanism Aner Barzilay	73
5 Foucault, Genealogy, Critique Dotan Leshem	97
6 Foucault on Phobie d’État and Neoliberalism Duncan Kelly	111
7 Foucault, Neoliberalism, and the Iranian Revolution Claudia Castiglioni	139

8	Neoliberal Selves: Human Capital between Bourdieu and Foucault	157
	Luca Paltrinieri
9	Not Fostering Life, and Leaving to Die	181
	Judith Revel
	Index	189
	About the Contributors	201