

Ethnography as Risky Business

Field Research in Violent and Sensitive Contexts

Edited by Kees Koonings, Dirk Kruijt, and Dennis Rodgers

LIBRARY OF THE
UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN

ANN ARBOR, MI 48106-1000

3 0000 0000000000

LEXINGTON BOOKS

Lanham • Boulder • New York • London

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction: Ethnography as “Risky Business” Kees Koonings, Dirk Kruijt, and Dennis Rodgers	1
1 Researching the Politics of Aid in War-Torn Societies: The Case of Chalatenango, El Salvador Chris van der Borgh	21
2 Dealing with Distrust: A Diplomat-Anthropologist Negotiating Obstacles in Politically Sensitive Urban Fieldwork Ingeborg Denissen	33
3 Researching Security in Africa as the “Sierra Foxtrot Golf” Tessa Diphooorn	45
4 A Wolf in Sheep’s Clothing: Negotiating Identity in Fieldwork Among the National Civil Police in Guatemala Marie-Louise Glebbeek	55
5 “Doctor, How Can We Improve Our Image in Europe?”: Researching War and Peace in Colombia as an Ethnographer-Consultant Kees Koonings	69
6 Interviewing Revolutionary Generations in Latin America: A Personal Memoir Dirk Kruijt	89
7 “You Are Not Like the Ladinos at All”: Reflections on Fieldwork, Cataloguing the Researcher, and Knowledge Production Elisabet Dueholm Rasch	101
8 Keeping a Distance?: Dealing with Perpetrators of Violence in a Guatemalan Town Simone Remijnse	113
9 From “Broder” to “Don”: Methodological Reflections on Longitudinal Gang Research in Nicaragua Dennis Rodgers	123

10	Interpretation of Dreams and Humor in Affective Fieldwork on State Violence in Argentina Eva van Roekel	139
11	Swimming with Former Combatants: Ethics and Pragmatics of Fieldwork in Post-War Zones in Sri Lanka Ariel Sánchez Meertens	151
12	Ethical Issues Raised by Legal Anthropological Research on Local Dispute Settlement in Ecuador Marc Simon Thomas	161
13	Security at Stake: Dealing with Violence and Public (In)security in a Popular Neighbourhood in Guadalajara, Mexico Monique Sonneveld	171
14	Among Comrades: (Dis)trust in Ethnographic Fieldwork with Former Salvadoran Revolutionaries Ralph Sprenkels	191
15	Embedded Ethnography: Conflict Research through an International Peace Mission in Colombia Floortje Toll	205
16	Fieldwork Frontiers: Danger, Uncertainty, and Limitations during Research with Former Combatants in Mozambique Nikkie Wiegink	219
	Appendix 1: Doctoral Dissertations Defended within the Utrecht Research Program	229
	Index	233
	About the Contributors	241