

THE CITY IN CHINA

New perspectives on contemporary urbanism

Edited by Ray Forrest, Julie Ren and Bart Wissink

BRISTOL
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

List of Tables and Figures	v
Notes on Contributors	vii
Acknowledgments	xii
Preface	xiii
1 Robert Park in China: From the Chicago School to Urban China Studies Xuefei Ren	1
2 “Bewitched by the History Behind the Walls”: Robert Park and the Arc of Urban Sociology from Chicago to China Bettina Gransow	17
3 Moral Order in the Post-Socialist Chinese City: Generating a Dialogue with Robert E. Park’s “The City” Fulong Wu and Zheng Wang	41
4 Learning from Chicago (and LA)? The Contemporary Relevance of Western Urban Theory for China Bart Wissink	61
5 From Chicago to Shenzhen, via Birmingham: Zones of Transition and Dreams of Homeownership Ray Forrest	81
6 Urbanization and Economic Development: Comparing the Trajectories of China and the United States Jan Nijman	101
7 The Handshake 302 Village Hack Residency: Chicago, Shenzhen, and the Experience of Assimilation Mary Ann O’Donnell	125
8 Beijing Ring Roads and the Poetics of Excess and Ordinarity Jeroen de Kloet	141
9 Pathways to Urban Residency and Subjective Well-Being in Beijing Juan Chen and Shenghua Xie	157

10	A Study of Socio-spatial Segregation of Rural Migrants in Shenzhen: A Case of Foxconn Zhigang Li, Shunxian Ou, and Rong Wu	185
11	The Anxious Middle Class of Urban China: Its Emergence and Formation Tai-lok Lui and Shuo Liu	207
12	Conclusion: Everyday Cities, Exceptional Cases Julie Ren	231
	Index	247