

Capitalism in Transformation

Movements and Countermovements in the 21st Century

Edited by

Roland Atzmüller

Johannes Kepler University, Austria

Brigitte Aulenbacher

Johannes Kepler University, Austria

Ulrich Brand

University of Vienna, Austria

Fabienne Décieux

Johannes Kepler University, Austria

Karin Fischer

Johannes Kepler University, Austria

Birgit Sauer

University of Vienna, Austria

Edward Elgar
PUBLISHING

Cheltenham, UK • Northampton, MA, USA

Contents

List of contributors	viii
1 Polanyian perspectives on the movements and counter-movements of “our time”: an introduction Roland Atzmüller, Brigitte Aulenbacher, Ulrich Brand, Fabienne Décieux, Karin Fischer and Birgit Sauer	1
PART I HISTORICAL AND THEORETICAL REFLECTIONS: KARL POLANYI, CAPITALISM AND SOCIETY
2 A life-long search for freedom. From Budapest to America and back: a journey through Karl Polanyi’s life Kari Polanyi-Levitt, interviewed by Michael Brie and Claus Thomasberger	22
3 “Plunges into utter destruction” and the limits of historical capitalism Beverly J. Silver	35
4 Crises and transformations: suggestions from Karl Polanyi’s works Michele Cangiani	46
5 Karl Polanyi as a theorist of disembedded markets Christoph Deutschmann	60
6 A Polanyian paradox: money and credit as fictitious commodities, financialization, finance-dominated accumulation, and financial crises Bob Jessop	75

PART II CONTEMPORARY DEVELOPMENTS OF SOCIETY AND CAPITALISM IN EUROPE AND BEYOND
7	Polanyian perspectives on capitalisms after socialism Dorothee Bohle and Béla Greskovits	92
8	Economy–society tensions in the Eurozone: the “anti-democratic virus” revived Maria Markantonatou	105
9	Political Islam as reactionary countermovement Ayşe Buğra	119
10	“Freedom’s utter frustration...”: considerations on neoliberal social-policy reforms and the shift to the far-right through Polanyi’s theory of fascism Roland Atzmüller and Fabienne Décieux	135
11	Völkisch populism: a Polanyian-type movement? Karina Becker and Klaus Dörre	152
12	Cultural war 2.0? The relevance of gender in the radical populist-nationalist right Birgit Sauer	169
PART III “FICTITIOUS COMMODITIES” AND THE CHALLENGES OF “OUR TIME”
13	Contested social-ecological transformation: shortcomings of current debates and Polanyian perspectives Ulrich Brand, Christoph Görg and Markus Wissen	184
14	Polanyi, nature and the international: the missing dimension of imperial ecocide Vishwas Satgar and Michelle Williams	198
15	Soy expansion and countermovements in the Global South: a Polanyian perspective Karin Fischer and Ernst Langthaler	212
16	Navigating between improvement and habitation: countermovements in housing and urban infrastructure in Vienna Andreas Novy, Richard Bärnthaler and Basil Stadelmann	228

17	The “fictitious commodity” care and the reciprocity of caring: a Polanyian and neo-institutionalist perspective on the brokering of 24-hour care Brigitte Aulenbacher and Michael Leiblfinger	245
18	The commodification of informal care: joining and resisting marketization processes Bernhard Weicht	261
19	Polanyi’s double movement and the making of the “knowledge economy” Antonino Palumbo and Alan Scott	274
20	Polanyi and the digital transformation of labour: on fictitious commodities and real conflicts Hans-Jürgen Urban	289
	Index	307