PART I

Concepts in embodied research	1
1 Embodied research design – a transformational paradigm in scientific discovery	3
Michael Changaris
2 Open and reflective research: Methodological reflections on the importance of body awareness in qualitative research	19
Helena Dahlberg
3 The concept of “felt sense” in embodied knowing and action	29
Ann Weiser Cornell and Barbara McGavin

4 Embodied data: Toward a vocabulary for somatic and movement experience Jennifer Frank Tantia	40
5 Ethical considerations in embodied research Rae Johnson	52
PART II	61
Methods and cases
SECTION I
Somatic systems of analysis	62
6 Methods for measuring embodiment, an instrument: The Multidimensional Assessment of Interoceptive Awareness (MAIA) Aaron Freedman and Wolf Mehling	63
7 Empirical evidence of the embodiment awareness changes in somatic focused gestalt psychotherapy Susan Grossman	75
8 Somatic phenomenology: Maps of body-felt experience Glenn Hartelius	87
SECTION II
Movement systems of analysis	100
9 The three pillars of movement observation and analysis: A brief introduction to the LMA, KMP and MPI Karolina Bryl	101
10 Embodied and nonverbal indices of stress in intergenerational transmission Silvia B. Birklein	113
11 The skillful analyst: Investigating, analyzing, and reflecting on movement behavior through embodied knowledge Karen Bradley	128

SECTION III
Embodied interviews and observations	140
12 Ethnomethodologically informed ethnography: Recognising the potential and limitations of the researcher's body as tool for exploring embodied practice Tara Woodyer	141
13 Beyond Interpretative Phenomenological Analysis: Using body awareness and mindfulness meditation practices to research body psychotherapy Gill Westland	153
14 The Body-focused Interview: Explicating the implicit in embodied research Jennifer Frank Tantia	165
15 Embodied writing research applications: Giving the body "voice" through the vehicle of words Rosemarie Anderson	176
SECTION IV
Creative and mixed methods	188
16 Body stories: Researching and performing the embodied experience of oppression Rae Johnson with Rebecca Morgan, Jessica Pink, and Masha Mikulinsky	189
17 The somatic impact of war and flight on the agent bodies of refugee women in Germany: A mixed-method approach including movement and body image sculptures Beatrice Schlee and Mone Welsche	200
18 Aesthetic answering: A method of embodied analysis and arts-based research in creative arts therapies Gudrun Lange, Nicole Hartmann, Marianne Eberhard-Kaechele and Sabine C. Koch	212
19 Mixed methods for evaluating embodied processes in higher education Rosa-Maria Rodríguez-Jiménez and Manuel Carmona	229
Index	242
