Remote Warfare

NEW CULTURES OF VIOLENCE

Rebecca A. Adelman
and David Kieran, Editors

FID SOCIAL

University of Minnesota Press
Minneapolis
London

Contents

Acknowledgments vii

Introduction: Rethinking Killing at a Distance 1
Rebecca A. Adelman and David Kieran

PART I
Visions

1 "An Entirely New Method of Conducting War at a Distance": The First World War and the Air War of the Future 31
Michael Zeitlin

2 Warrior Woundings, Warrior Culture: An Ethos for Post-9/11 American War Culture 53
David Buchanan

3 From Hermeneutics to Archives: Parasites and Predators in Homeland 79
Jens Borrebye Bjering and Andreas Immanuel Graae

4 Eye in the Sky: Persistent Surveillance Technology and the Age of Global War 103
Nike Nivar Ortiz

PART II
Intimacies

5 Of Games and Drones: Mediating Traumatic Affect in the Age of Remote Warfare 127
Michael Richardson

6 Over There? War Writing, Lethal Technology, and Democracy in America 153
Tim Jelfs

7 "Wanted Dead or Alive": The Hunt for Osama bin Laden 177
Annika Brunck

8 Home, Away, Home: Remoteness and Intimacy in Contemporary Danish Veteran Literature 201
Ann-Katrine S. Nielsen

PART III
Reconfigurations

9 Necrospace, Media, and Remote War: Ethnographic Notes from Lebanon and Pakistan, 2006–2008 229
Syed Irfan Ashraf and Kristin Shamas

10 Drones versus Drones: Ambient and Ambivalent Sounds against Remote Warfare 255
Owen Coggins

11 Bombs and Black Humor: Aerial Warfare and the Absurd 281
Brittany Hirth

12 An Architecture against Dacoits: On Drones, Mosquitoes, and the Smart City 303
Sajdeep Soomal

Contributors 327

Index 329