

Ute Dieckmann (ed.)

Mapping the Unmappable?

Cartographic Explorations with Indigenous Peoples in Africa

WID SOZIAL UND
POLITIKALISIERUNG
IN ZUSAMMENARBEIT MIT DER LFG

[transcript]

Contents

Acknowledgements	7
Introduction: Cartographic explorations with indigenous peoples in Africa
Ute Dieckmann	9
Where is the map?
Øyvind Eide	47
What were we mapping? From the Inuit Land Use and Occupancy Project to the Southern Kalahari
Hugh Brady	69
Hailom in Etosha: Cultural maps and being-in-relations
Ute Dieckmann	93
Densities of meaning in west Namibian landscapes: genealogies, ancestral agencies, and healing
Sian Sullivan and Welhemina Suro Ganuses	139
Mapping multiple in Maasailand: Ontological openings for knowing and managing nature otherwise
Mara Jill Goldman	193
Mapping materiality – social relations with objects and landscapes
Thea Skaanes	223

Canvases as legal maps in native title claims
Saskia Vermeylen	261
Mapping meaning with comics - Enhancing Maps with visual art and narrative
Frederik von Reumont	291
What shall we map next? Expressing Indigenous geographies with cartographic language
Margaret Wickens Pearce	317
About the authors	341