

Indigenous Resurgence

Decolonialization and Movements
for Environmental Justice

Edited by Jaskiran Dhillon

berghahn
NEW YORK • OXFORD
www.berghahnbooks.com

Contents

INTRODUCTION	1
Indigenous Resurgence, Decolonization, and Movements for Environmental Justice Jaskiran Dhillon
CHAPTER 1	9
Mino-Mnaamodzawin : Achieving Indigenous Environmental Justice in Canada Deborah McGregor
CHAPTER 2	27
Decolonizing Development in Diné Bikeyah: Resource Extraction, Anti-Capitalism, and Relational Futures Melanie K. Yazzie
CHAPTER 3	42
Fighting Invasive Infrastructures: Indigenous Relations against Pipelines Anne Spice
CHAPTER 4	59
Unsettling the Land: Indigeneity, Ontology, and Hybridity in Settler Colonialism Paul Berne Burow, Samara Brock, and Michael R. Dove
CHAPTER 5	77
Hunting for Justice: An Indigenous Critique of the North American Model of Wildlife Conservation Lauren Eichler and David Baumeister
CHAPTER 6	93
Righting Names: The Importance of Native American Philosophies of Naming for Environmental Justice Rebekah Sinclair

CHAPTER 7	109
Damaging Environments: Land, Settler Colonialism, and Security for Indigenous Peoples Wilfrid Greaves
CHAPTER 8	127
Settler Colonialism, Ecology, and Environmental Injustice Kyle Whyte
CHAPTER 9	147
Contradictions of Solidarity: Whiteness, Settler Coloniality, and the Mainstream Environmental Movement Joe Curnow and Anjali Helferty
INDEX	167