

Sámi Research in Transition

Knowledge, Politics and Social Change

Edited by

Laura Junka-Aikio, Jukka Nyysönen, and Veli-Pekka Lehtola

FID ZOTIAL- UND
KULTURANTHROPOLOGIE
in Zusammenarbeit mit dem IFF

Contents

List of Figures	vii
Notes on Contributors	ix
1 Sámi research in transition – an introduction	1
LAURA JUNKA-AIKIO, JUKKA NYSSÖNEN, AND VELI-PEKKA LEHTOLA
PART I
From Lappology to Sámi research	17
2 Society, ethnicity and knowledge production – changing relations between Norwegians and Sámi	19
IVAR BJØRKLUND
3 Choices and omissions of knowledge and social impact in Finnish committee reports on Sami policies	34
JUKKA NYSSÖNEN
4 Contested Sámi histories in Finland	51
VELI-PEKKA LEHTOLA
5 Self-Indigenization, Sámi research and the political contexts of knowledge production	71
LAURA JUNKA-AIKIO
6 From research on Sámi handicraft to duodji research	91
SIGGA-MARJA MAGGA

PART II

Negotiating the Sámi turn	109
7 Sámi-fication and Sámi museums ÁILE AIKIO	111
8 Indigenous journalism in academia – Sámi journalism education breaks new ground LIA MARKELIN, TOM MORING, CHARLES HUSBAND, NILS JOHAN HEATTA, NILS JOHAN PÄIVIÖ, AND LIV INGER SOMBY	130
9 “We haven’t come so far yet”: digital media, Sámi research and dissemination practices COPPÉLIE COCQ	149
10 Negotiating research: studying Sámi photographs as Norwegian outsiders SIGRID LIEN AND HILDE WALLEM NIELSSEN	169
11 Mapping prerequisites for successful implementation of an academic concept to societal arenas: The case of the non-status Sámi in Finland ANNI-SIIRI LÄNSMAN AND TERTTU KORTTELAINEN	186
12 Sámi research ethical guidelines: reflections on a con- tact zone of Sámi and dominant society LYDIA HEIKKILÄ	206
13 Ten problems faced by a Sámi who studies her own community SAARA ALAKORVA	224
 Index	 232