

Annelie Sjölander-Lindqvist
Ivan Murin • Michael E. Dove
Editors

Anthropological Perspectives on Environmental Communication

FID SOZIAL- UND KULTURANTHROPOLOGIE
in Zusammenarbeit mit der DfG

palgrave
macmillan

CONTENTS

Introduction Annelie Sjölander-Lindqvist	1
Dancing with Lava: Indigenous Interactions with an Active Volcano in Arizona Kathleen Van Vlack	29
Arsenic Fields: Community Understandings of Risk, Place, and Landscape Annelie Sjölander-Lindqvist	55
Cultural Transmission in Slovak Mountain Regions: Local Knowledge as Symbolic Argumentation Ivan Murin	79
Community Voices, Practices, and Memories in Environmental Communication: Iliamna Lake Yup'ik Place Names, Alaska Yoko Kugo	103
Demographic Change and Local Community Sustainability: Heritagization of Land Abandonment Symbols Ivan Murin, Jan Horský, and Ján Aláč	127

Living Stone Bridges: Epistemological Divides in Heritage Environmental Communication Richard Stoffle	149
“The Sea Has No Boundaries”: Collaboration and Communication Between Actors in Coastal Planning on the Swedish West Coast Simon Larsson and Annelie Sjölander-Lindqvist	175
Power, Conflicts, and Environmental Communication in the Struggles for Water Justice in Rural Chile: Insights from the Epistemologies of the South and the Anthropology of Power Cristian Alarcón Ferrari	195
Commentary Camilla Sandström and Katrina Rønningen	221
Index	231