

Morality, Crisis and Capitalism

Anthropology for Troubled Times

Edited by

Jean-Paul Baldacchino and Jon P. Mitchell

FID SOZIAL- UND
KULTURANTHROPOLOGIE
in Zusammenarbeit mit der DFG

berghahn

NEW YORK • OXFORD

www.berghahnbooks.com

Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
Introduction.
Anthropology and Its Crises	1
Jean-Paul Balzacchino and Jon P. Mitchell
Chapter 1.
Moralities, Engagement, Capitalism: Current Challenges for Critical Anthropology	17
John Gledhill
Chapter 2.
Between Conspiracy and Catastrophe: The Political Unconscious in Malta	37
Paul Sant Cassia
Chapter 3.
Crisis State of Mind: Spaces for Self-Determination in Permanently Troubled Times	62
Daniel M. Knight
Chapter 4.
The Moria Catastrophe in Greece: An Anthropologically Informed Disaster Analysis of Refugee Reception in Europe	79
Jutta Lauth Bacas

Chapter 5. Relevance, Ethics and the 'Good' in Anthropology: Moving beyond the Anthropology of Crisis to the Ethical Crises in Anthropology Jean-Paul Baldacchino	110
Chapter 6. Higher-Education Crisis, Academic Personhood and Moral Labour Matthew Doyle and James McMurray	128
Chapter 7. Dilemmas of Sexuality in Malta: Reconciling Catholic and LGBTQ+ Identities Jon P. Mitchell	152
Chapter 8. The Will to Risk: Why the Moral Economy Is Not What You Think A. David Napier	173
Index	187