

Scholarship and Christian Faith

Enlarging the Conversation

DOUGLAS JACOBSEN AND
RHONDA HUSTEDT JACOBSEN

With essays by

Rodney J. Sawatsky

Crystal L. Downing

Edward B. Davis

David L. Weaver-Zercher

Susanna Bede Caroselli

Kim S. Phipps

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

2004

Contents

Foreword, vii

Martin E. Marty

Contributors, xvii

Prologue: The Virtue of Scholarly Hope, 3

Rodney J. Sawatsky

Chapter 1 More Than the “Integration” of Faith and Learning, 15

Essay One Imbricating Faith and Learning:
The Architectonics of Christian Scholarship, 33
Crystal L. Downing

Chapter 2 Living the Questions of Learning and Faith, 45

Essay Two Is There a Christian History of Science? 63
Edward B. Davis

Chapter 3 Scholarship and the Varieties of Christian Faith, 77

Essay Three A Modest (Though Not Particularly Humble)
Claim for Scholarship in the Anabaptist
Tradition, 103
David L. Weaver-Zercher

Chapter 4 Scholarship Defined and Embodied, 119

Essay Four Instinctive Response as a Tool for the Scholar, 135
Susanna Bede Caroselli

Chapter 5 Contours and Contexts of Christian Scholarship, 151

Epilogue: Campus Climate and Christian Scholarship, 171

Kim S. Phipps

Index, 185