

CrossCurrents

CHARLES I. SCHUSTER, SERIES EDITOR

Composition, Pedagogy & the Scholarship of Teaching

EDITED BY DEBORAH MINTER & AMY M. GOODBURN
Preface by Ann Ruggles Gere

Boynton/Cook Publishers
HEINEMANN
Portsmouth, NH

Contents

Acknowledgments vii

About the Website ix

Preface

Anne Ruggles Gere xi

Introduction: Why Document Postsecondary Teaching?

Deborah Minter and Amy M. Goodburn xv

PART I Practical Concerns in Documenting Teaching 1

- 1 Reconsidering and Reassessing Teaching Portfolios: Reflective and Rhetorical Functions
Camille Newton, Tracy Singer, Amy D'Antonio, Laura Bush, and Duane Roen 3
- 2 Looping and Linking Heuristics for Teacher Portfolio Development
Julie Robinson, Lisa Cahill, and Rochelle Rodrigo Blanchard 14
Examples of Looping and Linking (see Website)
- 3 Thinking and Writing Ethnographically for Annual Reviews and Promotion and Tenure Portfolios
Sarah Robbins 22
Teaching Documentation from Promotion File (see Website)
- 4 Constructed Confessions: Creating a Teaching Self in the Job Search Portfolio
Peggy O'Neill 33
Teaching Documentation for Job Search (see Website)
- 5 Teaching Statements and Teaching Selves
Ruth M. Mirtz 43
Teaching Philosophy Statements (see Website)

- 6 Peer Observation as Collaborative Classroom Inquiry
Deborah Minter 54
Assignments and Sample Observation Materials (see Website)
- 7 The Course Portfolio: Individual and Collective Possibilities
Amy M. Goodburn 65
Sample Course Narratives and Course Portfolios (see Website)

PART II Implications for Documenting Teaching: Assessment, Evaluation, and Reform 77

- 8 Beyond Course Evaluations: Representing Student Voice and Experience
Margaret K. Willard-Traub 79
Teaching Documentation for Job Search (see Website)
- 9 The Medium and the Message: Developing Responsible Methods for Assessing Teaching Portfolios
Chris M. Anson and Deanna P. Dannels 89
- 10 Reading for Pedagogy: Negotiating the Complexities of Context from a Search Committee Chair's Perspective
Donna LeCourt 101
- 11 The Ethics of Required Teaching Portfolios
Carrie Shively Leverenz 110
- 12 Building Community Through Reflection: Constructing and Reading Teaching Portfolios as a Method of Program Assessment
Ellen Schendel and Camille Newton 121
- 13 Working Together, Advancing Alone: The Problem of Representing Collaboration in Teaching Portfolios
Stephen Fox 132
Teaching Documentation from Tenure File (see Website)

Works Cited 143

About the Contributors 153