Foreword	xxvii

Section I: Foundations and Framing..... 1

Chapter 1: Research concepts3

KIRSTY WILLIAMSON

Introduction.....	4
Research paradigms.....	5
Reasoning styles.....	6
Positivism	7
Post-positivism	8
Interpretivism: Its paradigms and research designs	9
Critical theory.....	16
Other conceptual approaches.....	17
Qualitative research.....	17
Mixed methods research	19
Matching research questions to appropriate designs.....	20
Conclusion	20
References.....	21

Chapter 2: The fundamentals of research planning.....27

KIRSTY WILLIAMSON

Introduction.....	28
Choosing a topic.....	28
Hypothesis development and an example of hypothesis use.....	29
Hypotheses: Definitions and types.....	29
An example of hypothesis use from the literature	30
Formulating research questions and matching them to methodologies	31
Questions and methodology for a positivist/quantitative study	32
Questions and methodologies for interpretivist/qualitative studies	35
Questions and methodology for a critical ethnography (based on critical theory)	42
The literature review.....	44
Undertaking a literature search	44

Basic steps for writing a literature review	45
Theoretical frameworks	46
Theory development	47
Conclusion	53
References.....	53
Chapter 3: Information research: Patterns and practice.....	59
GRAEME JOHANSON AND KIRSTY WILLIAMSON
Introduction.....	60
Information research dimensions	61
What is information research?.....	61
The role of research in professional practice	69
Importance of research to professional practice	70
Research dissemination.....	72
Research dissemination practices	72
Impacts of information technology.....	74
Technological opportunities.....	74
Transformations resulting from IT.....	75
Resisting technological determinism.....	75
Conclusion	76
References.....	76
Chapter 4: Archival and recordkeeping research: Past, present and future	85
ANNE J. GILLILAND AND SUE MCKEMMISH
Introduction.....	86
Historical developments, current trends, future directions.....	87
Growing diversity of research themes.....	87
Expanding research front	91
Archival theory and model building.....	92
Research programs and research infrastructure	94
Research education	94
Targeted research agendas and funding programs.....	94
Scholarly venues.....	95
Evolving research ethos and culture	96
Philosophical and theoretical frameworks for research.....	97
Positivism, interpretivism and critical theory.....	97
Double hermeneutics	98
Research methodologies, design, methods and techniques	99
Methodologies.....	99
Methods and techniques	100
Designing research.....	110
Conclusion	115
References.....	116

Chapter 5: The methodological landscape: Information systems and knowledge management.....127

DUBRAVKA CECEZ-KECMANOVIC AND MARY ANNE KENNAN

Introduction..... 128
 Methodological landscape 130
 The three major research paradigms..... 134
 Positivist, interpretive and critical research paradigms:
 Examples from the literature 136
 Developing research question/s 140
 From research questions to selection of methods..... 149
 Conclusion 152
 References..... 152

Section II: Research Methods157

Chapter 6: Survey designs159

KERRY TANNER

Introduction..... 160
 Survey research challenges and issues..... 160
 Sampling and the ability to generalise in survey research 161
 Creating valid and reliable survey research instruments..... 161
 Dealing with four potential sources of bias and error 162
 Typical stages in survey research 164
 Broad types of survey 165
 Descriptive (or status) surveys 165
 Explanatory (or analytical) surveys..... 168
 Survey modes 173
 Postal (or mail) surveys 174
 Personal interview-based surveys 180
 Telephone surveys 182
 Online surveys..... 184
 Mixed-mode survey designs..... 190
 Conclusion 190
 References..... 191

Chapter 7: Case study research in information systems.....193

GRAEME SHANKS AND NARGIZA BEKMAMEDOVA

Introduction..... 194
 What is case study research?..... 195
 Types of case study research..... 196
 Research case studies 196
 Teaching case studies 199
 Designing case study research..... 200
 Research problem suited to case study research 201

Designing and scoping case study research	201
Conducting case study research	203
Gaining access to organisations	203
Efficient and effective collection of data	204
Writing rigorous case study research reports	204
Conclusion	205
References	205
Chapter 8: Action research: Theory and practice	209
KIRSTY WILLIAMSON
Introduction	210
Defining and positioning action research	211
The paradigm question	212
The role of theory	213
The action research spiral	214
Designing, undertaking and evaluating action research	215
Smart Information Use project	216
Information Literacy (IL) Development in the Electronic Age project	218
Action research to investigate cognitive processes underlying strategy development	221
Conclusion	222
References	222
Chapter 9: Constructivist grounded theory: A 21st century research methodology	225
JAMES E. HERRING
Introduction	226
The development of grounded theory	226
Aims and areas of exploration	228
The process of constructivist grounded theory	229
Data gathering	229
Theoretical sampling	235
Developing theory	236
Evaluation	238
Conclusion	238
References	239
Chapter 10: Bibliometric research	241
GABY HADDOW
Introduction	242
Background and terminology	242
Terminology	243
The role of scholarly communication patterns and disciplinary differences	245
Bibliometric laws and indicators	246
Bibliometric laws	246
Bibliometric indicators: Measures of productivity and influence	247
Citation analysis, authorship and content analysis: Study design	251

Sampling for bibliometric research.....	251
Data analysis in bibliometric research	252
Authorship and affiliation.....	256
Content analysis.....	258
Challenges in bibliometric research.....	260
Assumptions and limitations of bibliometric research	261
Conclusion	262
References.....	262
Chapter 11: Design-science research	267
RON WEBER
Introduction.....	268
Goals of design-science research.....	269
Undertaking high-quality design-science research	271
Guidelines approach.....	271
Design-theory approach	274
Design-science research methodology approach.....	276
An alternative approach to evaluating design-science research.....	276
Evaluating a design-science research process	277
Evaluating design-science research outcomes.....	282
Conclusion	286
References.....	287
Chapter 12: Researching history.....	289
GRAEME JOHANSON
Introduction.....	290
The future is not what it used to be	290
What is history?	292
Evidence is rarely self-evident	294
Evaluating the evidence	297
Detective	298
Sceptic and verifier	299
Attributor and disentangler	301
Clarifier	302
Storyteller, explainer	304
Conclusion	305
References.....	306
Chapter 13: Ethnographic research	311
KIRSTY WILLIAMSON
Introduction.....	312
Ethnography: Frameworks and approaches.....	314
Positivist framework.....	314
Constructivist framework	315
Critical ethnography	316
Postmodern ethnography.....	318
Further comments on contemporary ethnography	319

Trustworthiness in ethnographic studies.....	321
Concerns about, and approaches to, validity in ethnography.....	322
Ways of ensuring trustworthiness.....	323
Designing and undertaking ethnographic research.....	324
Uses of ethnography in information research.....	325
Conclusion.....	329
References.....	329
Chapter 14: Experimental research	337
KERRY TANNER
Introduction.....	338
Philosophical paradigms and underpinning concepts.....	338
Core concepts.....	339
The laboratory experiment (or true experiment).....	342
Particular laboratory experiment research designs.....	343
Factorial designs.....	345
Strengths and limitations of the laboratory experiment.....	347
Field experiments (pre-experimental and quasi-experimental research designs) ...	349
Pre-experimental research designs.....	349
Quasi-experimental research designs.....	351
Conclusion.....	355
References.....	355
Section III: Research Techniques.....	357
Chapter 15: Populations and samples.....	359
KIRSTY WILLIAMSON
Introduction.....	360
Definition of terms.....	361
Types of sampling.....	361
Probability sampling.....	362
Non-probability sampling.....	369
Conclusion.....	374
References.....	375
Chapter 16: Questionnaires, individual interviews and focus group interviews	379
KIRSTY WILLIAMSON
Introduction.....	380
Questionnaires.....	380
Advantages of questionnaires.....	381
Disadvantages of questionnaires.....	381
Questionnaire design.....	382
Piloting the questionnaire.....	386
Individual interviews.....	387

Types of interviews	388
Focus group interviews	394
Advantages and disadvantages of focus groups.....	394
Uses of focus groups.....	395
Conclusion	401
References.....	401
Chapter 17: Observation	405
KIRSTY WILLIAMSON
Introduction.....	406
Types of observation.....	407
Structured versus unstructured observation	407
From non-participation to complete participation	412
Undertaking observation.....	415
Gaining entry to a setting and selecting a sample	415
Data collection	416
Validity and reliability	418
Ethical issues.....	419
Examples of observation in the information field.....	420
Mapping the social activity space of the public library	420
The role of information for people in the fourth age.....	422
Self-observation of an ultrarunner	424
Conclusion	424
References.....	425
Chapter 18: Quantitative data analysis	429
JUDITHE SHEARD
Introduction.....	430
Context for discussion: Project management website usage dataset	430
Data preparation	431
Data cleaning	432
Data transformation and integration	433
Statistical analysis.....	434
Descriptive statistics.....	435
Inferential statistics.....	443
Summary of results of analyses	450
Conclusion	451
References.....	451
Chapter 19: Qualitative data analysis.....	453
KIRSTY WILLIAMSON, LISA M. GIVEN AND PAUL SCIFLEET
Introduction.....	454
Thematic analysis and category coding: An overview.....	455
Themes, categories and coding.....	456
Qualitative content analysis: An overview	461
Foundations of content analysis	461
Qualitative content analysis	462

Discourse analysis: An overview	467
Varied approaches to discourse analysis.....	468
Discourse analysis in information studies: A brief overview	471
Conclusion	471
References.....	472
Section IV: Research Practice and Communication.....	477
Chapter 20: Ethical research practices	479
GRAEME JOHANSON
Introduction.....	480
Research as an ethical hot-house.....	481
The basis of ethical practice.....	483
Intercultural research ethics	488
Language and ethics	489
Variations in cultural norms and ethical practice.....	489
Human rights, ethics and research	490
Research phases requiring ethical behaviour	491
Research planning and design.....	491
Collecting data.....	493
The management and storage of data	493
Publication of research data and findings.....	494
Ownership and authorship	496
Peer review	496
Conclusion	497
References.....	498
Chapter 21: Managing research data	505
MARY ANNE KENNAN
Introduction.....	506
Research data: Forms and sources.....	506
Digital data	507
Why research data need to be managed	507
Data management planning and processes	508
Legal, ethical and policy requirements for planning	509
Pragmatic and practical reasons to plan	510
Data management planning tools and resources	513
Conclusion	514
References.....	514
Chapter 22: Research writing and dissemination.....	517
MARY ANNE KENNAN AND KIM M. THOMPSON
Introduction.....	518
Where to start	518
The research writing process.....	520

Structure.....	520
Writing as you research	522
Study significance	522
Guides for authors	523
Revising, editing and proofing.....	523
Dissemination and publishing.....	524
Types of formats	525
Open access.....	528
Emerging forms of dissemination.....	529
Peer review and ethical writing.....	529
Revisions post-review.....	530
The ethics of authorship	531
Conclusion	532
References.....	532

Section V: Information Research: Reflections on Past and Future.....535

Chapter 23: The future of information research537

KIRSTY WILLIAMSON, GRAEME JOHANSON, ALEX BYRNE, LISA M. GIVEN,
MARY ANNE KENNAN AND GILLIAN OLIVER

Introduction.....	538
Research methodology	538
The past affects the future	538
Prophecy: ‘From the lush jungle of modern thought’.....	541
Cultural differences in future information research.....	548
The complexity of culture	549
Diverse information environments	551
The globalisation-nationalism paradox	551
Research and practice	552
Practitioners and researchers	553
The tipping point.....	555
Future directions: Both practice-led and practice-leading.....	557
Conclusion	558
References.....	559

Concluding reflections: The research journey.....565
