

E-learning 1.0, 2.0, and 3.0 in Higher Education

Rhiannon Evans and Claus Nygaard

THE LEARNING IN HIGHER EDUCATION SERIES

Contents

Foreword Birgit Loch	vii
Chapter 1: An Introduction to e-learning in higher education: 1.0, 2.0, and 3.0. Malinda Hoskins Lloyd, Willie McGuire, Reya Saliba, Rachid Bendriss, Flemming Meier, Rhiannon Evans, and Claus Nygaard	1
Chapter 2: E-learning as a strategy for improving university students' learning outcomes Claus Nygaard	23
Chapter 3: Using a peer-centred online learning platform to support students' academic-professional transition Willie McGuire and Olan Harrington	45
Chapter 4: The effectiveness of e-learning in Business Communication at the University of Johannesburg? What students say! Magas R. Pather	73
Chapter 5: Using Wordpress, Canvas LMS, Dropbox and Facebook to enhance students' online engagement in postgraduate education Anne Hørsted	101
Chapter 6: Using e-learning to improve the student experience of lectures Rhiannon Evans	115
Chapter 7: The E-CIL framework: an instructional practice for promoting student engagement with content, the instructor, and other learners in online courses Malinda Hoskins Lloyd	137

Contents

Chapter 8: Experiential learning in premedical education: enhancing students' experience through e-learning Reya Saliba &amp; Rachid Bendriss	165
Chapter 9: Ten e-learning technologies to support problem-based collaborative work Flemming Meier &amp; Claus Nygaard	189
Chapter 10: Using e-learning to supervise students' project work in higher education: some pedagogical requirements Flemming Meier	211