

Intellectual Collaboration with the Third Reich

Treason or Reason?

Edited by Maria Björkman, Patrik Lundell, and Sven Widmalm

Contents

List of contributors	vii
Acknowledgements	xi
1 Collaboration and normalization MARIA BJÖRKMAN, PATRIK LUNDELL & SVEN WIDMALM	1
2 “Zwischenvölkisches Verstehen”: Theory and practice of knowledge transfer, 1933–1945 ANDREA ALBRECHT, LUTZ DANNEBERG & ALEXANDRA SKOWRONSKI	21
3 The art of Nazi international networking: The visual arts in the rhetoric and reality of Hitler’s European New Order BENJAMIN G. MARTIN	37
4 Treason? What treason? German–foreign friendship societies and transnational relations between right-wing intellectuals during the Nazi period JOHANNES DAFINGER	55
5 Some remarks on relations between Germany and Japan in the field of research, 1933–1945 HANS-JOACHIM BIEBER	67
6 Between competition, co-operation and collaboration: The International Committee of Historical Sciences, the International Historical Congresses and German historiography, 1933–1945 MATTHIAS BERG	84
7 The Academy of Sciences of Lisbon between science, international politics, and neutrality, 1932–1945 FERNANDO CLARA	101

vi Contents

8	Sympathy for the devil? American support for German sciences after 1933	119
	HELKE RAUSCH
9	Hektor Ammann's völkisch idea of medieval economics and the place of Switzerland in Nazi-dominated Europe	134
	FABIAN LINK
10	An agent of indirect propaganda: Normalizing Nazi Germany in the Swedish medical journal Svenska Läkartidningen , 1933–1945	150
	ANNIKA BERG
11	Transnational encounters in science: Knowledge exchanges and ideological entanglements between Portugal and Nazi Germany 1933–1945	166
	CLÁUDIA NINHOS
12	German foreign cultural policy and higher education in Brazil, 1933–1942	182
	ANDRÉ FELIPE CÂNDIDO DA SILVA
13	The politics of “neutral” science: Swiss geneticists and their relations with Nazi Germany	198
	PASCAL GERMANN
14	Contributing to the cultural “New Order”: How German intellectuals attributed a prominent place for the Spanish nation	214
	MARICIÓ JANUÉ I MIRET
15	Copenhagen revisited	230
	MARK WALKER
16	On the structural conditions for scientific amorality	248
	SUSANNE HEIM
	Index	259