

Communities of Activism

Black women, higher education and the politics of representation

Edited by Jan Etienne

is an imprint of

Contents

About the contributors	vii
Acknowledgements and editor's note	xi

Part 1: Activism inside the academy

1. Introduction. Education for survival: Black lives and black women's activism Jan Etienne	2
2. Black women academics: Politics of representation and community activism in the African diaspora Patricia Daley	12
3. Aspiration, Exclusion and Achievement: Reflections on black educational inequalities Patricia Gilbert	27
4. 'Hello Trouble': Black women academics and the struggle for change Cecile Wright	48

Part 2: Intergenerational voices: Black women respond to crisis and black youth

5. Black youth, loss of trust and the crisis of knife crime: Pursuing a Womanist strategy Palmela Witter	61
6. Drill Music, violence and criminalization: Gendered platforms for resistance Jan Etienne and Ezimma Chigbo	75
7. Pain, anger and youth resistance: Police racial awareness training and the contemplations of a black mother Lorraine Jones	91

8. Educating Ryan: Black youth surviving a British Education system	110
Jan Etienne and Dawn Joseph

Part 3: Black women in higher education, supporting and collaborating internationally for change

9. And they didn't die: Black women and the silencing of activist voices	123
Nombuso Mathibela
10. Whiteness in denial: Promoting culturally specific conversations in higher education	138
Jan Etienne, Jen Davis and Fyna Dowe
11. Supporting black sisters in UK higher education: A question of activism	155
Uvanney Maylor

Conclusion

12. Beyond Brexit: Black women in higher education, collaborating internationally for change	167
Jan Etienne

Index	171
-------	-----