

New Approaches to Scientific Realism

Edited by
Wenceslao J. Gonzalez

DE GRUYTER

Contents

Wenceslao J. Gonzalez

Novelty in Scientific Realism: New Approaches to an Ongoing Debate — 1

I New Framework for the Realism and Anti-realism Debate

Peter Achinstein

Scientific Realism: What's All the Fuss? — 27

Alexander Bird

Scientific Realism and Three Problems for Inference to the Best Explanation — 48

Howard Sankey

Scientific Realism and the Conflict with Common Sense — 68

II Approaches based on History and Scientific Realism

Anastasios Brenner

Evolving Realities: Scientific Prediction and Objectivity from the Perspective of Historical Epistemology — 87

Thomas Nickles

Do Cognitive Illusions Make Scientific Realism Deceptively Attractive? — 104

III Logical Approaches in Realist Terms

Alan Musgrave

Against Paraconsistentism — 133

Theo A. F. Kuipers

Stratified Nomic Realism — 145

IV Logico-Epistemological Structural Realism and Instrumental Realism

John Worrall

Structural Realism: The Only Defensible Realist Game in Town? — 169

Ladislav Kvasz

Mathematical Language and the Changing Concept of Physical Reality — 206

V New Developments on Critical Scientific Realism and Pragmatic Realism

Ilkka Niiniluoto

Interdisciplinarity from the Perspective of Critical Scientific Realism — 231

Wenceslao J. Gonzalez

Pragmatic Realism and Scientific Prediction: The Role of Complexity — 251

VI Realism on Causality and Representation

Donald Gillies

Realism and AIM (Action, Intervention, Manipulation) Theories of Causality — 291

Tomasz Placek

Is Physics Biased Against Alternative Possibilities? — 305

VII Realist Accounts on Objectivity and Facts

Amanda Guillan

Realistic Components in the Conception of Pragmatic Idealism: The Role of Objectivity and the Notion of “Fact” — 331

Anthony O’Hear

“Heard Enough from the Experts”? A Popperian Enquiry — 348

Matti Sintonen

Realism in Archaeology – A Philosophical Perspective — 365

VIII Realism and the Social World: From Social Sciences to the Sciences of the Artificial

Adrian Miroiu

A Structural Realist Approach to International Relations Theory — 391

Maria Jose Arrojo

Objectivity and Truth in Sciences of Communication and the Case of the Internet — 415

Index of Names — 437

Subject Index — 447